

CAMPUS MASTER PLAN

University of Dayton

Process Overview

Burt Hill and UD Campus Planning are working collaboratively with the University and community to develop a sustainable campus master plan that will benefit the UD community and surrounding areas.

Local stakeholders, along with a facilities committee, are offering input during the master planning process while the Campus Master Planning Steering Committee acts as an advisory board to the planning team.

Plans will be presented to the President's Council and Board of Trustees, who will work with the planning team during the final decision-making process.
